EDITORIAL SPEAKS

One day, one of my best friends, Late Benoy Sarkar, the former and first Secretary of the Institute, DAITM, told me, "In the future, nobody will get jobs by studying general education courses like B.A., B.Sc., and B.Com. from general degree colleges. It will be a great help to Bengali students if you can introduce Management courses in the college."

I immediately supported his idea of opening Management courses in the college. However, I pointed out the inadequacy of space at Dinabandhu Andrews College. Nevertheless, I fully agreed with his vision that studying Management courses would provide better employment opportunities in the future than pursuing general courses like B.A., B.Sc., and B.Com.

However, I imposed one condition upon him: after one year, he would shift the courses from our D.A. College to another nearby place so that the first-year students, after being promoted to the second year of Management studies, could continue their education without any loss of academic year or interruption. He agreed to this condition.

This was the background behind the introduction of the new Management courses at Patuli, where the newly established Dinabandhu Andrews Institute of Management and Technology is situated.

Fortunately, Benoy Sarkar was my friend. At that time, he was a Member of the Governing Body of Dinabandhu Andrews College and also the Headmaster of the renowned institution, Naktala High School.

I am very happy to know that nowadays Dinabandhu Andrews Institute of Management and Technology is regarded as one of the best institutes not only in West Bengal but also in India.
